Leadership Development Solutions Tailored to Your Organization's Unique Needs

As the global home of Situational Leadership®, we understand that one size does not fit all. The Center for Leadership Studies (CLS) has over 30 years of experience designing, delivering and evaluating customized learning solutions across many industries and modalities. We utilize a unique combination of design methodologies and learning technologies to develop and deploy engaging real-world training for your organization that directly addresses your specific challenges and gaps.

Driving Value

Your organization has unique learning needs that require an approach designed to maximize organizational relevance and business impact. CLS' acclaimed custom development capabilities focus on leveraging cutting-edge learning design with best-in-class execution to create learning solutions that, among other things:

- Integrate organization- and culture-specific considerations and nuance
- Enhance leader competency and skill development
- Identify competency needs and learning gaps to enable continuous learning development
- Assess training impact and return on learning investment
- Utilize role-specific learning solutions to drive cultural transformation

Award-Winning Custom Learning Development to Maximize Results

The Center for Leadership Studies has been designing and developing award-winning custom learning solutions across the Fortune 500 for more than 30 years. From a development standpoint, our intent is simple – create a personalized approach to your organizational needs and objectives to craft a learning solution that directly connects to your desired outcomes. While custom solutions are synonymous with the notion of an “infinite mindset,” the following highlights a subset of our most common capabilities.
